PROPOSALS
For Publishing, by Subscription,

THE COMPLETE WORKS OF
SIR WALTER SCOTT:

With a Biography: being the first American (and only) edition which contains the Author's last additions and illustrations, arranged upon their respective pages.

A COMPLETE and uniform edition of the various productions of the great 'Minstrel of the North,' is a desideratum with the American public. No library is complete without them, and no edition extant is sufficiently compact for such a repository; while the endless number of editions, without any uniformity in size, heretofore published, besides being exceedingly cumbrous, are far too voluminous and expensive to be within the reach of the great majority of readers. The undersigned therefore announce, that they have now in press, and will issue, an edition of the Works of Sir Walter Scott, which will embrace all his Poems, Novels, Histories, Biographies, and Fugitive Compositions, as well as the Biography and Private Correspondence, now in the course of publication in England, under the superintendence of Mr. Lockhart.

1st. In Parts: each Part embracing as much matter as is contained in two volumes of the present editions of the Waverley Novels, which will be put at the unprecedented low price of THIRTY SEVEN AND A HALF CENTS.

2d. Two parts will appear each month; but should the publishers find the work to meet the patronage they anticipate, FOUR PARTS will be issued monthly.

3d. The whole will be completed in seven volumes, or forty eight parts.

The paper on which the above is now printing, has been made expressly for the purpose; the present parts may, therefore, be considered a fair specimen, in every respect, of the whole work; but, should dissatisfaction arise with any subscriber, owing to an inferior article being offered, he may discontinue at any time, and have the amount paid returned.

Note.—The publication of the first volume is deferred until the receipt of the Biography, Private Correspondence, and the New Edition of the Author's Poetical Works, with 'contemporary criticism—various readings—and correspondence with some of the most eminent persons of the time when the Poems first appeared,' now in the course of publication in England.

Volume I will be ornamented with an excellent Portrait of Sir Walter Scott.

DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, SEPT. 25, 1833.

On the intended removal of the government deposits, out of the Bank of the United States, the editor of the National Gazette makes the following, among other remarks:

"The annunciation in the Globe of yesterday has excited a strong sensation, though the measure was not unexpected. We should describe the prevailing sentiment here as a mingled one of regret and indignation that the "subaltern influences" as the Globe terms them, or the malign as they have been commonly and aptly called, have been able to achieve so much with the President and against the laws, constitution, and regular cabinet. Certainly, the case is fitted to awaken lively alarm and the gravest reflection. Let us look at it cursorily. By the existing law of the land—the act of Congress chartering the Bank—it is provided "That the deposits of the money of the United States, in places in which the said Bank and Branches thereof may be established, shall be made in said Bank or branches thereof, unless the Secretary of the Treasury shall at any time otherwise order and direct; in which case the Secretary of the Treasury shall immediately lay before Congress, if in session, and if not, immediately after the commencement of the next session, the reasons of such an order and direction."

In consequence of the frequent denunciations of the Bank, by the cabal, a special agent of the Treasury was appointed to examine its condition, and his report presents this opinion and these words:—"Thus far I consider my report as complying with the part of your letter directing the investigation, so as to ascertain the security of the public money and the solvency of the Bank, NEITHER OF WHICH CAN, IN MY OPINION, ADMIT OF A DOUBT." The Committee of Ways and Means, of the House of Representatives at Washington, reported a Resolution that the public deposits might be safely continued in the Bank; and the House of Representatives, by a vote of more than two thirds, resolved—"THAT THE GOVERNMENT DEPOSITS MAY IN THE OPINION OF THE HOUSE BE SAFELY CONTINUED IN THE BANK OF THE UNITED STATES."

The Secretary of the Treasury, who has the particular charge of the connection of the Bank with the government, is understood to have recently declared, also, that these deposits are safe, and, according to some of the Baltimore papers, of yesterday, "it is reported and generally believed" that he has resigned or will resign his office rather than act as the agent of the Kitchen Cabinet. The Secretary of State, himself quite recently head of the Treasury, protests, it is credibly said, against the removal of the deposits as being in flagrant violation of the act of Congress, and the declared will of that body in this very matter. The Secretary of War, we are informed, is equally hostile to it as an invasion of the constitutional power of Congress. Thus, it would appear that the majority of the cabinet proper are opposed to it; and that President Jackson has been wrought upon to sanction a measure, which is in defiance of the Act of Congress, that allows him no authority whatever over the deposits—in defiance of the report of the Treasury agent, whose intelligence and integrity have not been questioned—in defiance of the report of the Committee of Ways and Means, the financial organ of Congress—in defiance of the solemn vote of that Congress—in defiance of the remonstrances and convictions of his Secretary of the Treasury and the advice of the majority of his regular council. The case will be aggravated, if Mr. Duane should relinquish his station to give place to some ready instrument of an arbitrary will and sinister dictation—an instrument who may execute the purpose, and then evade the constitutional power of the Senate. And to what does all this lead? Why, to the result that the President of the U. States, not content with the ample powers already confided to him, will have usurped the command of the whole twenty five millions of the revenue! He will have assumed the power of removing that revenue from the place where the law has fixed it, and distributing it to whomsoever he has pleased, whether to Banks, or individuals at Washington or elsewhere, as managers of a political game.

We are struck with this affair as equal, in importance of fearful import, to any thing that has occurred in our country. The principles of the Veto message, and the claim for the President, in Mr. Kendall's circular to be "the government," are, indeed, "followed out;" and in a way that outrages the laws in practice, as those documents do the constitution in theory. We have heretofore observed that Congress are not likely to concede the property of all the public funds to the Executive. We now anticipate that the subject will be taken up with the least possible delay after the opening of the next session, and earnest inquiry instituted into the whole scheme of usurpation."

The New York Journal of Commerce gives the following as the outline of the plan on which the Treasury has proposed that the business of receiving and disbursing the public moneys is to be done by the State Banks. How far its accuracy may be depended on, we are unable to say:

Deposits in the Local Banks.—The outline of the plan proposed by the Treasury for an arrangement with the local Banks to receive the government deposits is substantially this. That two banks in New York, one in Philadelphia, one in Baltimore, and one in Boston, five in all, should be associated together, and take the responsibility and superintendence of the whole business, engaging to perform all the services which the U. S. Bank is required by law, or has been accustomed to perform.

These five primary banks are to nominate other banks or agents in all places where there is revenue to be collected; these nominations to be subject to the ratification of the Treasury. The primary banks are each to give security in an amount equal to the sums likely to come into his keeping; and they are to become jointly and severally responsible for one another, and for each and all of the secondary banks or agents. They are further to allow a Commissioner from the Treasury to investigate their affairs from time to time, much as is now done by the U. S. Bank. Such is the proposition. It is well and sagaciously planned for security, which, under the circumstances, must be a a consideration above all others. But we think there must be great if not insurmountable obstacles in the way of accomplishing such a plan.

Not so much perhaps on account of any difficulty in the nature of the case, but because the arrangement is so unlike all other arrangements, that the proper powers on the part of bank directors are wanting, and also the experience and familiarity with a responsibility of this sort which would make them take it without unreasonable apprehensions. Our Auctioneers and other merchants, the bank directors, and the banks themselves, are accustomed to take guarantees and responsibilities as great in amount, all things considered, and much more hazardous. Yet they will hesitate, and perhaps all refuse to take this, though the premium may be quite ample for the risk.

We learn that the Board of Commissioners on the French Claims, recently adjourned until November, after having examined the papers of about two thousand documents, the greater portion of the evidence of which has yet to be presented to the Board.

EXTRACTS FROM FOREIGN PAPERS.

In the British House of Lords, on the 12th August, the Duke of Wellington presented a petition from the Planters of Jamaica, praying to be heard by counsel against the bill for the abolition of Slavery in the West Indies, and expressed a hope that objection would not be made to such a course.—The question to permit the petitioners to be heard at the bar was negatived without a division.

A Methodist conference was held at Manchester, which terminated on the 12th of August.—The number of preachers present was 430. It was stated that there had been an increase of members in Great Britain amounting to 27,289, exclusive of the returns from America, where the increase amounts to 40,000. Rev. George Marsden is to be sent out to Canada.

The Bishop of Bristol has recovered £6000 damages from the city, for injury done to his palace in the riot of 1831.

Java papers, from the 29th of January to the 19th of February, mention a severe shock of an earthquake, which was felt at Batavia on the 28th of January, at noon. A few houses were damaged, and the old Lutheran church much injured.—Many of the inhabitants, alarmed by the continued shocks, left their houses, and remained in the open air till the earthquake was over.

DR. DIXON, THE AFRICAN TRAVELER.

Extract of a letter dated Cape Coast Castle, 28th April, 1833.

"I fear I have been guilty of great neglect in not sooner communicating to you the result of my inquiries respecting the fate of Dr. Dixon.—These particulars I shall, however, now briefly recapitulate to you, that you may be able to answer any inquiries on the subject, on their correctness, I believe, you may perfectly rely.

"His Majesty's ship Brazen, having Captain Clapperton and the expedition on board, on her voyage down the coast of Bagadry, from whence it was intended the expedition should start, touched at Whydah, a small town on the Dahomey coast. Here the gentlemen of the expedition landed, and were hospitably entertained by a Senhor de Souza, the most notorious and extensive slave dealer on the coast of Africa. While here, Dr. Dixon expressed a strong desire to penetrate into the interior, through Dahomey, so as to rejoin Captain Clapperton and his companions at Kantanga, or, as it is called, the coast of Eyco. M. de Souza readily offered his services, and actually accompanied the Doctor to the Court of Dahomey, at an immense expense to himself, being obliged, when visiting the King, to make him large and valuable presents. Dr. D. was well received by the King, who swore not only to protect him while passing through his own dominions, but to use his power and influence to procure for him similar favor and protection from those Chiefs through whose dominions he needs must pass. The Doctor accordingly left Dahomey, well escorted, and the King or Chief into whose country he was about to enter, having also sworn to afford him every protection and assistance, he had every prospect of being able to reach Katunga long before Captain Clapperton. There it was, however, that his ignorance of the customs of the country, and impatience or irritabily of temper, cost him his life. When approaching the principal town, the King, attended by his sons and Chiefs, came out, as it is customary, to meet him, and the King desired his eldest son to swear fidelity to the stranger, after the fashion of the country. You will, perhaps, recollect that this is done in this part of Africa by the party drawing a sword, or kind of sabre, (more like a bill hook than any thing else,) making a long harangue, using all the while the most violent and angry like gestures, and pushing the point of the sword almost down the throat of the party in whose favor the oath is taken; in fact they show their dexterity by cutting close to the face without actually touching it. Doctor Dixon unfortunately misunderstood the meaning and nature of the whole ceremony, and conceiving from the gestures and appearance of the King's son, that he meant to kill him, drew his sword and plunged it into his body. Instantly all was uproar, and the Doctor would, of course, have been sacrificed on the spot, had not the King interfered, and ordered him to be guarded into the town, declaring that he could not break his oath, even although his son had been stabbed;—it was besides against the "Fetish" of that country to shed blood in the presence of the King. Dr. D. was ordered to leave the country the next morning, and with an escort from the King, proceeded on his journey accordingly. The instant, however, that he had passed the boundaries of the King's dominions, (when, according to their ideas, the King's oath was no longer binding,) his escort fell upon him and murdered him.

This I have reason to know is a true and correct account of Dr. Dixon's lamentable fate."

Slave Question.—The Paris Moniteur contains a royal ordinance on the subject of the slaves in the French colonies, of which the following are the principal clauses:—"From and after the 1st of January next all the returns annually made to the municipalities in the colonies, as to the number and condition of the slaves, shall contain the name, age, sex, and cast of each individual, with all such marks and descriptions as shall be sufficient to identify them, with the nature of the work in which they are employed. Detailed accounts are to be added of every circumstance, with dates, showing the cause of any augmentation or diminution of numbers that may have taken place since the preceding return. In case of acquisition, or loss, by sale or purchase, inheritance or gift, the returns are to contain the names of the person from whom such acquisitions have been made, and of those by whom they have been acquired, with their respective dates. Every infraction of the above regulations is to be punished by a fine of from 20 to 200 fr. Every slave master who shall fail to make his return within the period fixed by the local authorities is to be punished by a fine of from 300 to 3,000 fr. Every slave master, or his agent, is to make a declaration of the births, marriages, and deaths of his slaves, with their respective duties. The declarations of births and marriages are to be made within five days after the events, under a penalty of 20 or 200 francs.—The declarations of deaths are to be made within 24 hours, and no burial is to take place until after the expiration of the same period, and with the authority of the officers before whom the declaration is made. Such periods may be prolonged by order of the local authorities, according to the difficulties of communication. The penalties, for any infraction of these regulations, are to be the same as those fixed by Art. 358, of the Penal Code. All these returns are to be inscribed in the registers. This ordinance is preceded by a report of the Minister of the Marine and Colonies, as a means of regulating the assessment of the fiscal impositions, but as tending to prevent more effectually the continuance of the slave trade.

A New Dish for Epicures.—In looking over a file of late English papers, we find it announced that one Bezoni had been sentenced to fifteen days imprisonment, for selling cats for rabbits at different restaurateurs. He had carried on the trade ever since 1828, and sold an immense number of mousers without detection. Suspicions were excited by his want of care in selecting his victims, having sometimes disposed of venerable patriarchs, whose gout could not be mistaken. The heads, tails, and feet, he made into soup for the poor, and was considered a charitable man. When the police entered his house, they found the corpses of eighteen cats, all ready for the stew pan, and in a box were twenty others, whose condition required a little improvement, and who occasionally found it necessary to "eat each other," for want of better "commons."

Alexander & Co., of Calcutta.—The failure of this house was the most extensive ever known. At a meeting of the creditors, lately held in London, Mr. Bracken, one of the company, presented his balance sheet, from which the following amounts are derived:

Debts due by the firm, £3, 296,666 13s. 4d., or about sixteen millions of dollars.

Assets—good debts, £1,260,112 10s.; doubtful debts, £2,858,708 6s. 8d.—together, £4,734,041 13s. 4d. It was expected that no great portion of the doubtful debts would be recovered. It is not stated why these debts amounted to such an enormous sum, but said the balance sheet was pronounced satisfactory by the creditors, who instantly signed Mr. Bracken's certificate.

Missionary Intelligence.—Every sincere Christian and every true philanthropist will be gratified in perusing the article which we subjoin, from a late number of the Liberia Herald. A Missionray Society was established some time ago in Monrovia, and we are now presented with the prospect of its fruits. If the lights of science and religion are ever shed extensively upon Africa, the rays will probably be diffused more successfully by her own children, than by the Missionaries of any foreign country. The climate which is so fatal to the whites, is genial to the blacks; and it is moreover natural to suppose that the natives will listen to persons of their own color with greater confidence than to white men, whom they have known only as the sons of rapine.

We commend the following article especially to the consideration of those who are anxious for the spread of the gospel, and who, at the same time, are endeavoring to counteract the operations of the Colonization Society, from whom the good has incidentally sprung, that they may see the character and results of the work they are so strenuously impeding:—

MONROVIA, May 20, 1833.—According to the resolution of the Managers of the Board of Domestic and Foreign Missions in the town of Monrovia, and Colony of Liberia, held on the 17th of May, 1833, at the Monrovia Baptist Church, Adam W. Anderson, by proposal to said board, was unanimously appointed a Missionary, by all present, to locate himself, for the space of one year, at Grand Cape Mount, (W. A.) among the Vye people, to teach children of the natives, as far as possible, the English language, and to preach, when opportunity would offer itself, to the adult part of the tribe. He will leave Cape Measurado in a few days, in prosecution of so arduous and important a duty. O! may much good be done through his instrumentality among that idolatrous and perverse people, that the Savior of mankind might receive abundant honor, even among the heathen, to His name.

In a long letter from a traveler at the West, to the editor of the Albany Argus, we find the following interesting statements:

Chicago is about 300 miles west of Detroit, by the rout at present and usually traveled. It is a town beautifully situated, at the head of Lake Michigan, on the western side of it, and is unquestionably destined to become one of the large cities of the far and great west. It is at the head of lake navigation, and vessels and steam boats of the largest size may pass to and from Buffalo and Chicago, thus presenting these two points in prominent contrast.

There is not a more beautiful and noble sheet of water in the world, for navigation, than lake Michigan; and the time is not far distant, when its bosom will be whitened with the canvass of large vessels, and agitated with the more rapid and imposing action of steam boats. Indeed, there is, at this moment a steam boat, "The Michigan," floating at the wharf, within a few rods of the room in which I am writing, [in Detroit,] nearly finished, which is destined for the navigation of the upper lakes.

Chicago is situated on the margin of the lakes, and also on the banks of a river of the same name, one of the most beautiful streams I have ever seen. The Chicago river is formed by the confluence of two branches; which are called the North and South branch; and the confluence is directly in the centre of the town; and from the Point (so called, where the branches unite,) it winds along until its waters mingle with those of the lake, near a mile from the Point. At the mouth of this river, the government is now constructing a national harbor, under the superintendence of Major George Bender, the commanding officer at Fort Dearborn, a gentleman of deservedly high reputation in the army. The river is navigable with twenty three or four feet of water, up to the Point, and up each branch, for a considerable distance. The harbor being completed, vessels of the largest size may run up to the Point, and there find a safe and excellent mooring.

Chicago is on the great western thoroughfare to the Valley of the Mississippi; and, in a few years, we shall have a regular chain of steam boat, rail road, and stage communication, from the city of New York to St. Louis and New Orleans, on this rout. The natural rout is a rail road from Albany to Buffalo, steam boat from thence to Detroit, a rail road across the territory, from Detroit to the mouth of the St. Joseph's river, (about 200 miles,) a steam boat from thence across the lake to Chicago, only 45 miles, and a rail road from Chicago to the Illinois river, 110 miles, where it will meet steam boats of the largest size from New Orleans and St. Louis, and this will complete the rout.—When this rout shall be established, you may travel from Albany to St. Louis in nine days!—and it will combine such advantages of certainty, safety, comfort, and expedition, to say nothing of the great attraction of country and places through which it will pass, that, in my opinion, it will be the great thoroughfare between the Atlantic States and the Valley of the Mississippi. If this be so, the interests of St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo, Albany, and New York, are identical, and should be so regarded.

We understand that the Rev. E. K. Avery preached on Sunday last, at Winchester, and that there was some excitement in consequence. It is to be regretted that this man should attempt, and wrong that his brethren permit, him to preach. Public feeling will not tolerate it. There are some disposed to condemn the popular sentiment concerning Avery; but both he and his friends are indebted in no small degree to public forbearance.—Hartford Times.

Passengers.—Seven thousand and two passengers arrived at Baltimore, from foreign ports, from the 1st of May to the 31st of August.

Something New.—An agricultural friend has related to us the following. He has observed, for some weeks, that two of his cows gave but very small quantities of milk in the morning; at night they gave the usual quantity, but, it the morning, it was not unfrequent for them to withhold it altogether. He could not account for it, but he was satisfied they must have been milked; yet, with all his precaution, he could not discover the offender. Yet the evil continued—until a few days since, when it was discovered that a couple of good sized hogs were stationed, one on each side of the cows, "playing the part of the calf," with a good share of self complacency. The cows and hogs had been kept at night in the barn yard together; and it appeared that the grunters had so far ingratiated themselves into the good graces of the cows, as thus to be indulged with the first milking.—Auburn Journal.

Among the articles in the Boston Token, prepared for 1834, is one entitled "The Plague in the Forest," a fable, in verse, by John Quincy adams.

Rank in Society.—The respect we pay to wealth absorbs the respect we should pay to genius. Literary men have not with us any fixed or settled position as men of letters. In the great game of honors, none fall to their share. We may say truly, with a certain political economist, "we pay best, 1st, those who destroy us—generals; 2d, those who cheat us—politicians and quacks; 3d, those who amuse us—singers and musicians; and least of all, those who instruct us." It is an important truth, noted by Helvetius, that the dregree of public virtue in a state depends exactly on the proper distribution of public rewards. "I am nothing here," said one of the most eminent men of science this country ever produced, "I am forced to go abroad sometimes to preserve my self esteem.—London paper.

Horrible Affair.—The New Orleans Advertiser, of the 23d August, relates the following: two Mexicans, of the lower class, had a dispute on Sunday last, and agreed to go out on the Bayou road and fight a duel with dirk knives. They walked on for some time, one a little in advance of the other; when they had got about a mile from town, the hindermost one called to the other to stop, as he thought they had got far enough; the other turned and told him that he thought it was folly to fight for such trifles, and they had better settle the matter; he advanced to light a segar from one which the other was smoking, and, while in the act of lighting his segar, stabbed the former in the abdomen, and let out his entrails. The wounded man was brought to town, made his affidavit, identified the murderer, and died on Monday evening.

New Island in the Pacific.—A small island was discovered by Capt. Underwood, of the American brig Bolivar Liberator, in lat. 14 46 N. long, 169 18 E., on the 9th of February, on his passage from the Sandwich Islands. This island, which has not been laid down on the charts, is about 6 miles long, running WNW. and ESE. with a reef extending nearly ten miles from its West extremity. It is visible at 4 or 5 miles distant from a ship deck. The name of Farnham's Island has been assigned to it.—Philad. Chron.

At the Ruthian Assizes, (Eng.,) recently, a learned wigman put the following question to a witness, "You are a husbandman, I believe?" "Noa, I'm a single man," replied the clodpole.

Woman.—There are but few instances, in which woman possesses the elevated rank in society to which her worth and importance so justly entitle her. Seldom do we find her exempt from the foul and servile drudgery—which is calculated for, and adapted to the strength and power of the opposite sex, or her influence extend beyond a kitchen or fireside. Supposed to be hair brained in her conjectures—trifling in her disposition, and of a distempered imagination, a cook shop—or sewing room is supposed to be the proper sphere of her action. But her mind, is of far higher, purer, and nobler order, designed for better things; view her in times of adversity, trouble, sickness, and distress. See her joyful mirth dispel sadness and gloom, pour the oil of consolation into the anguished soul—her smiling countenance and helping hand, as it were by magic, ease the racking pain of a fever, and banish perplexity, and then we have a faint specimen of her excellence, and can in a very small degree appreciate her worth.

Hail woman, Hail! best friend we have below
To soothe and sweeten all the cares we know.

The Rev. MELVILLE B. COX, late a Methodist Missionary to Western Africa, recently expired in the field of his labors. It is stated that he sailed from this country with the avowed expectation of closing his career in Africa; but a sense of duty enabled him to anticipate such a result with resignation and even with cheerfulness. The Commercial Advertiser deduces, from the death of Mr. Cox, a strong argument in favor of the employment in Africa, of colored missionaries, to whom the climate is agreeable, while to the whites it is fatal.—Balt. Pat.

Murder and Suicide.—The way bill of the stage from Cumberland, in this State, which left there on the 17th inst. arrived in this city on the 18th inst. contained a statement that Dr. Charles Swearingen had that day shot a young man by the name of Thistle, and immediately put an end to his own life by shooting himself. Mr. Thistle was not dead, but his life despaired of.—Balt. Republican.

From the West Indies, via Key West.—The United States mail schr. John Dennison, Capt. Cold, arrived yesterday from Key West, whence she left on the 1st inst. The J. D. spoke on the 6th inst., in the Harbor of Key Vacas, the Spanish brig Rosa, from Havana, bound to New York, which vessel had put in in distress, having experienced very bad weather, split sails, &c.

By this arrival, letters have been received from Havana as late as the 27th August, and from St. Jago to the 14th.

The Cholera, it appears, still prevails, to a considerable extent on the plantations on the island; in the city very little alarm is exhibited at the few cases that occur.—Charleston Courier, Sept. 12.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 2, 1833.—tf

DOCTOR J. B. ROSE,
DENTIST,
(LATE OF REGENT STREET, LONDON,)

RESPECTFULLY informs the inhabitants of Pittsburgh and its vicinity, that he has taken an office, No. 80 Third street, next door to Dr. Burrell, where he performs all operations on the Teeth and Gums, in a style not to be surpassed.

☞Natural and Artificial Teeth set in the best manner, and at the most reasonable charges.—Also—Porcelain Teeth, from a single one to a whole set.

On the first appearance of Tarter or Scurvy, Teeth should always be cleansed, as the corrosion of the tarter will, in a short time, reach the roots of the Teeth, and they will eventually fall out—when, by attending to them in season, they might be restored, at a trifling expense, to their original beauty.

The operation of Plugging and Filing the Teeth, when decayed, is so truly important that it is impossible to recommend it too earnestly to the attention of the public. Thousands of the most useful Teeth, which otherwise, on account of their painfulness, would be sacrificed by extraction, may thus be preserved for many years. Doctor R., convinced that he can render benefits beyond all price to those who need his assistance, will wait upon families at their residence, if requested, and Teeth brought to a Pearl White at one sitting.

☞As Dr. R. intends to remain in town but a short time, as early a call as convenient is advisable.

Dr. R. has for sale the British Antisceptic Dentrifice. This elegant Tooth Wash, with a very little use, eradicates the Scurvy in Gums, and prevents the accumulation of Tarter, which not only blackens, but loosens the Teeth, and accelerates their decay; removes the causes of offensive breath, preserves the healthiness of the Gums, and renders the Teeth beautifully white. Price 50 cents per Bottle.

Paper Mill for Sale.

THE Extensive Establishment, known as the Soft Spring Paper Mill, now in the occupancy of C. Lukens & Co. is offered for sale.—Its situation is both desirable and healthy, possessing local advantages superior to any mill in the west, with a spring of pure, soft water, yielding a superabundance for all purposes—propelled by an engine sufficiently powerful, and to which has recently been added an entire New Machine for the manufacture of paper. Its location is about two miles from the city, on the Eastern Turnpike. The subscribers have no hesitation in believing it offers inducements to purchasers highly advantageous.

The terms will be rendered satisfactory, and but a small portion of the purchase money required at the time of sale, with an extended credit for the residue, being determined to make an early disposal. It will be sold low. Application made personally, or by communication, to either of the subscribers, will be attended to.

PERIODICALS.

AMERICAN RAILROAD JOURNAL, and Advocate of Internal Improvements, which is designed as a repository of the accounts of the rise and progress of numerous works of Internal Improvement, in the United States particularly, and in other parts of the world generally. The work is published weekly, and forms a large octavo volume each year, of 832 pages of 3 columns each, for $3 per annum, in advance.

New York Farmer, and American Gardener's Magazine. This work is designed for the agriculturist, and will be found to contain much, both interesting and profitable, to those who cultivate the soil as a business, or merely a garden for amusement. Published in monthly parts of 32 large octavo pages, with three columns each, at $3 per annum, in advance.

Mechanics' Magazine, and Register of Improvements and Inventions. To the Mechanics of the United States---In this populous and enlightened country, almost every description of persons can obtain knowledge and amusement connected with their peculiar pursuits, through the medium of the Journal or Magazine, especially devoted to their interests. The Theologian, the Farmer, the Philosopher, the Sportsman, and even the Plough Boy, has each his Journal, where he can find a record of the passing events of the day, connected with his peculiar avocations and recreations. Hitherto, the Mechanics (who form a large and most important portion of the community) have had no Journal, to which they could turn, with the certainty of finding that information they desire, no periodical of which they could say: 'This is ours, and for us.' In the hope that the attempt to supply such a want at a price so reasonable as to be within the reach of all, will meet with your active support, the subscriber proposes to publish, on the first day of each month, a Mechanics' Magazine. It will contain a well digested selection of the most useful and interesting articles in the London Mechanics' Magazine, London Register of Arts and Sciences, Repertory of Inventions, Library of Useful Knowledge, Journal of the Franklin Institute, and other works, connected with the arts and manufactures, published in this country and in Europe, accompanied with numerous and well executed Engravings. Its pages will be open for the communications of all, and especially for those of the practical artisan, to whose interest it will be particularly devoted. DOCTOR ROBERT'S
☞WELCH MEDICAMENTUM☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,
From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.
Utica, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer is vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S
COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes giving temporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.
